English Courses via Skype

Flexible and efficient English language learning based on individual learning requirements - now possible with TREFFPUNKT Language Institute and Skype.

At home, in the office, on the train to Berlin or in a Parisian hotel: wherever they are, students of TREFFPUNKT Language Institute now have the opportunity to learn English over the Internet.

Initially these online courses were developed to allow former students of the school to build on their English language knowledge. However, they proved to be so popular that TREFFPUNKT Language Institute eventually decided to make them available to all.

Online language courses are particularly popular among those who are unable to attend English courses at the language institute on a regular basis. They open up new possibilities for busy professionals with fixed working hours or a limited schedule. In addition, they serve as an excellent complement to intensive courses, allowing the learner to focus on personal language learning goals at a time of their choice. Many use the opportunity to prepare for intensive English courses abroad, making the most of the flexibility and individual attention offered by the online courses.

This flexibility with regard to learning time and location is one of the primary reasons for the success of English via Skype. In addition, the individual instruction allows courses to be tailored according to personal objectives, with the teacher able to react immediately to any student requirements. As a result, English via Skype is an exceptionally efficient way of learning, in which communication skills such as pronunciation, expression and listening comprehension are trained particularly intensively.

Having observed these and many other advantages of language learning via the Internet, directors of TREFFPUNKT Language Institute have decided to firmly incorporate these types of English courses into their programme. In taking this action, they are not only responding to the progress of technology but also to changes in the learning requirements of their students.

The result is a high level of satisfaction, as can be seen from student feedback: "... I'm really enthusiastic about the first lesson. I had no problems at all in understanding the teacher [...] I really am very pleased with the first lesson."
